

Not all the sessions will be provided with simultaneous translation. However, there will be live subtitles in different languages (English, French, German, Spanish, Russian) available. Here you can find the instructions to enable the live subtitles:

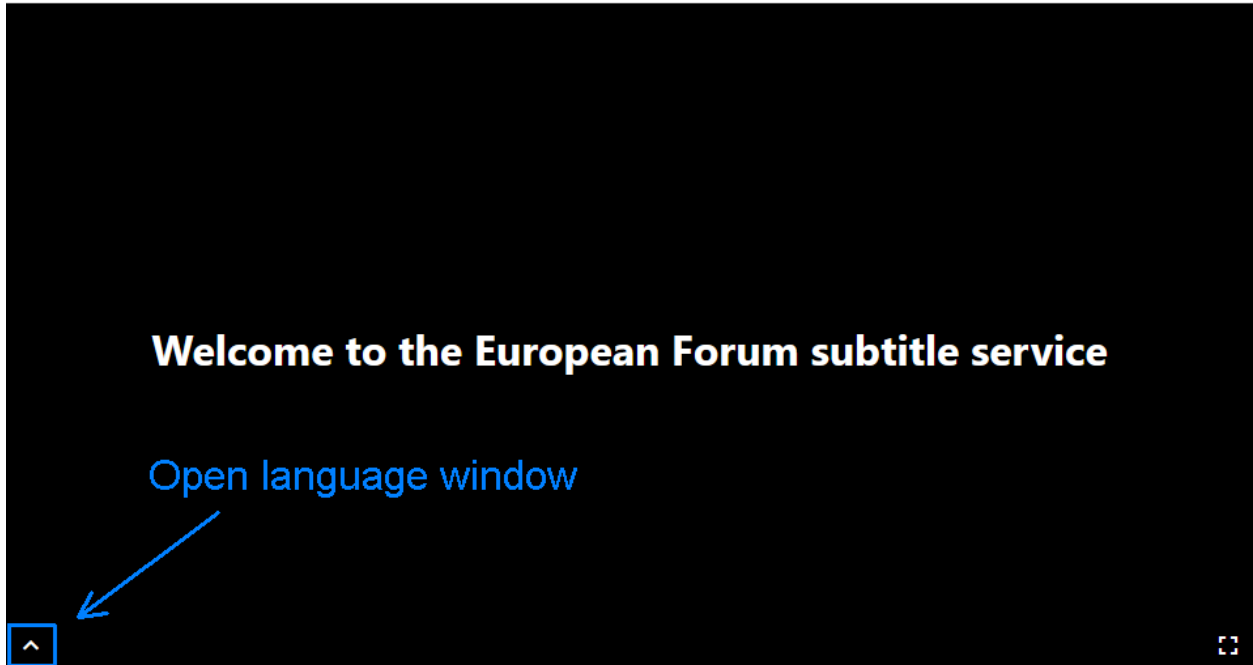

Getting started

To enable the live subtitles, start your session. Click then the language button (multilingual subtitles) and open it in a new browser window.

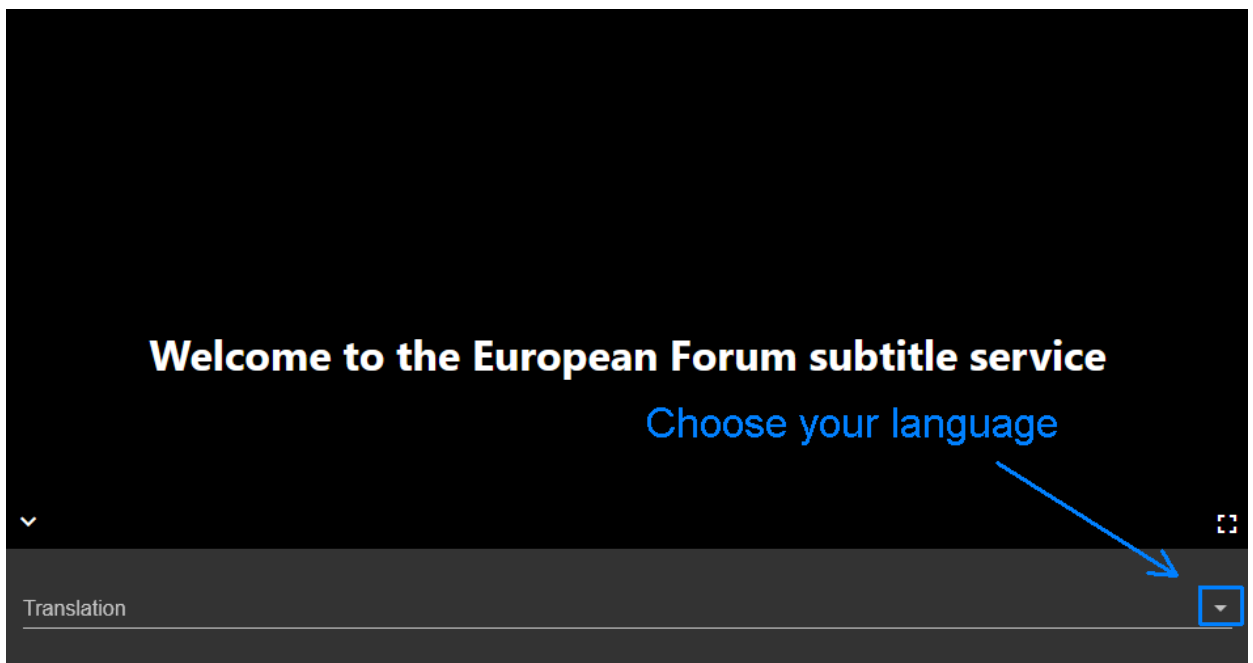

The technical moderators will post the web addresses for the subtitles on the Zoom chat during the sessions. So, you can copy and paste them from there.

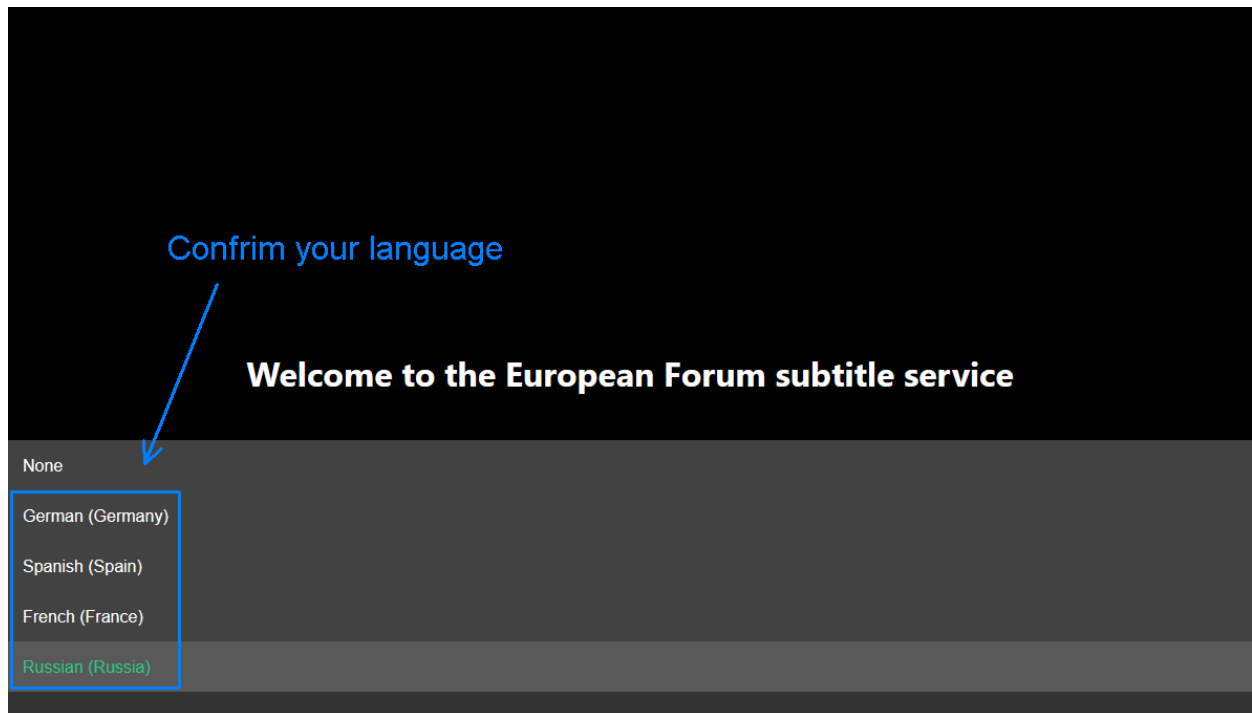

When you access the page, a new window opens. You can either follow the instructions there or use the following:

For choosing a language, click the small downward arrow on the bottom right corner.

Now you can pick by clicking on one of the following languages appearing in the bottom left corner: German, French, Russian or Spanish.

The subtitles will start immediately. Depending on connection quality and speaking speed, there might be some delay.

The translation of your choice appears at this point.
